

HE USED TOO MANY

Joseph Tannenholz's Sad Death
From Cigarette Smoking.

CONSUMED SIXTY A DAY

A Promising Young Man Cut Down
by the Deadly Poison.
Autopsy to Be Made.

Joseph Tannenholz, a young man 22 years old, died yesterday afternoon at the Veterans' hospital, where he had been boarding for the last two months.

The direct cause of death was consumption of the lungs, but the contributing cause was announced by Dr. Barth, his attending physician, to be cigarette smoking. The young man came from New York city about two months ago and engaged with the Clark Cigar company as traveling solicitor. He worked up an extensive trade in the city, and during the last few weeks preceding his illness had consumed several of the small towns in the northern part of the state. He was an inveterate smoker of cigarettes, and according to his own statement made to the attending physician when he was first called to attend him he smoked on an average sixty cigarettes a day. His first illness manifested itself in a serious form two weeks ago and Dr. Barth was called. He found the young man suffering from pericarditis or inflammation of the sack surrounding the heart, and upon examination discovered that the pericardium contained a large quantity of water. One week ago last Thursday the doctor tapped the region of the heart and drew off four ounces of water. The patient was relieved to the extent that the doctor thought he would recover. His condition continued to improve until last Monday he left his room and went out into the hall. He was then attacked by a fainting spell and congestion of the lungs followed, which terminated fatally. Dr. Barth pronounced the heart trouble due directly to the excessive use of cigarettes and the weakened condition of the patient's constitution. He made him an easy prey for congestion of the lungs. Dr. Barth and Hake will make an autopsy of the remains this morning to determine the exact condition of the vital organs. The young man had no relatives in the city. He was a single man and his parents live in New York city. Dr. Barth sent a telegram to them last night announcing his death, and the remains were placed in charge of Undertaker Mason, awaiting instructions as to the burial.

Watch in a Sower Trap.

One of the new traps in the second floor of the New Livingston was found to be clogged yesterday. Upon investigation, Engineer E. A. Brooks discovered a silver watch firmly wedged in the trap. Superintendent Carr Nabbs a
Chicago Man

WANTED FOR DEADLY ASSAULT

J. Frank Hickey Admits He Stabbed
His Sweetheart in the Side—
Was an Accident.

Last evening about 8 o'clock Superintendent of Police Carr arrested J. Frank Hickey on Cass street on suspicion that he was a man wanted by the authorities in Chicago for attempted murder. He took the man to the police station and the capture proved to be a clever one, as the answer to the superintendent's telegram to the Chicago police department afterwards verified. Inspector of Police Shaw instructed the superintendent to take the prisoner until this morning when an officer will be here to get him. The superintendent read the account of Hickey's crime in the Chicago papers, and knowing that he had relatives in this city, kept an eye open for him. Hickey resembled his relatives so closely that the superintendent was sure he was the man wanted although he had never seen him before. The prisoner was wanted in Chicago for stabbing Miss Della Davenport last Wednesday evening. He had been boarding with Mrs. Nettie Bush, Miss Davenport's mother, at No. 125 Twenty-fourth street in that city and had become enamored of the daughter. She did not receive his attentions kindly and he became insanely jealous of her. She and her sister went to the fair on Wednesday and after supper they were sitting ready to go out for a walk. Hickey asked her if she were going out again and she replied in the affirmative. It is alleged that he told her he would put a stop to that and drawing a knife stabbed her in the side. He then walked out coolly through the hall by her mother into the street. Mrs. Bush heard a moan from her daughter's room and going in found her lying on the bed with the blood flowing from her side. Physicians and the police were summoned, but Hickey could not be found. The wound inflicted by Hickey is not thought to be fatal as the force of the knife was stopped by the young woman's corset stays. He admitted to the police last night that he did the stabbing, but claimed it was an accident. It appears that he had boarded with the family at one time before this, and Mrs. Bush refused to keep him on account of his drinking habits, but she took him in again a few days ago.

MR. SWEET'S IDEA.

Would Pump the City Water From Above the D. G. H. & M. Bridge.

Martin L. Sweet has a new idea for a water supply, which he thinks is practical and inexpensive. "Just above the D. G. H. & M. railroad bridge there is a natural basin," said Mr. Sweet. "The water is from fourteen to eighteen feet deep, and the basin extends up the river to the bend below the Soldiers' home. It would be an easy matter to run an immense pipe from the pumping station to some point in this basin. The end of the pipe could be elevated above the bottom of the pond, so as not to draw in sand and dirt. The water in this natural setting basin is comparatively pure and free from dirt. Pipe could be laid at a small expense from the Soldiers' home to some point below the intake. That would dispose of the sewage problem. The source of supply is what I know of, and the cost of obtaining it would be small."

BUSTED THE CUPID.

How a Woman Brought Disaster and Gloom to an Ionia Man.

There was a disgusted and fatigued expression on one of the trains out of the city last night. He came here from Ionia, and during the day purchased a large plaster cast of a Cupid holding a vase above his head. The cast represented the Ionia man's idea of the correct thing in high art, and he was as proud of it as a boy is of his first cigar. He carried the fragile figure under his arm, and with its plaster of paris feet projected due west, he made his way through the crowd at the depot to board a car for home. Just before he reached the car he encountered an excited woman who had lost something or somebody. She was running amuck, and promptly collided with the white-washed Cupid. The god struck squarely on his head on the platform, and broke in twain at the neck. The Ionia man gazed at his shattered idol for a moment. "I'll be damned," said he, and the crowd was with him.

Excursions to Ottawa Beach.

Some 500 excursionists from Lansing and 400 more from Stanton, Greenville and Beidling, passed through the city yesterday morning on their way to Ottawa Beach. They returned home last evening. About 900 persons from this city went to the beach yesterday, returning at 8 o'clock last night.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Theatrical managers will learn some time, if not by experience, then by instinct, that August is the month in which to begin the show season. With three excellent attractions in the local theaters and a Sunday night to furnish the crowds, the audience in The Powers, The Grand and Smith's last night would not comfortably fill the lower floor of either of them. This sort of thing may be profitable to the actors, but it is a dead loss to the managers. September is early enough to begin the dramatic season, and of the three managers W. H. Powers is the only one to realize it.

Cleveland's minstrels played to empty chairs last night. In former years he has been greeted with immense audiences, but this year, with the best organization and the best performance, he could not secure a lower floor audience in three attempts. The company went to Bay City this morning.

"The Pulse of New York" played to a light audience in the Grand. The piece is superbly mounted, the mechanical effects being unsurpassed. The company is evenly balanced and is satisfactory.

A. C. Henderson in the character of the villain, Hild, has some strongly dramatic lines, which he reads with pleasing force and vivacity. Curly Sweney is as bright and chipper in her hydro role as assignment as in other days. She was suffering from illness last evening, but bravely carried through her exacting work. The balance of the cast is up to the standard of last year.

Manager Smith looked in upon a message audience last evening and gravely accounted for it by the counter attraction at The Powers. The bill is a good one, it appears with two large, letta arranged by Lillie Morris. The stock company assume the rollicking roles and make a jangle from start to finish. Among the new faces may be seen the Howards, Edna Ashley and Mary Alexander. The whole concludes with "O' what a Pudding," which, of course, had no reference to last night's receipts.

Unique Advertising Schemes of the Herman Company.—What It Is.

Owing to the stringency of the money market, scarcity of work and realizing the fact that until very recently there were a great many out of employment, we have decided to make some one a present of $20 in gold in the following manner: We have twenty refrigerators left which we will sell at about the cost to manufacture. We shall put them in the windows marked in plain figures, both the regular price and the price that we will sell them for now. Directly over them we will place twenty envelopes. In one of them we shall place an order for $200 in gold. The person purchasing the refrigerator can choose an envelope and put his or her address on it. When they are all filled out the entire batch will be mailed and some one in the lot will get an order for $200, which they can bring in and receive $200 in gold. The name and address of the lucky party will be published in the papers. The price on our refrigerators vary in price from $5.00 to $15.50, cash or credit.

The time never was more favorable for speculating in grain and stocks than at present. Prices are 40 per cent lower than they ought to be on both grain and stocks.

The recent money panic is the cause of these conditions.

The crops are generally good this year, with the exception of wheat, throughout the country, and the foreign demand is the largest of the year, owing to the damage of their crops. It is but a short time until wheat will sell 40 cents per bushel higher than present quotations.

TEETH!

Beautiful teeth are a luxury few possess. We have heard people say they would give anything they had for such beautiful teeth as to had so had.

The true secret is not so much in the perfection of the teeth as in the snow like whiteness and the brilliant polish.

All teeth are capable of this with proper care. Waxes and pastes should be avoided as they are injurious as are also many of the powders. A properly prepared powder, however, is the only right and perfect thing to clean and preserve the teeth. This we have succeeded in producing after much labor and expense. The form is in one of the most perfect, delicate of our country and is absolutely perfect.

SAPORITA—Is the name we have adopted for it, and we are the exclusive owners and manufacturers. We guarantee Saporita to be the only perfect tooth powder on the market that it will prevent decay and make the teeth more beautiful with less trouble than any other preparation to be had.
